

Bids Taken on 12 Road Projects

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Highway Commission opened bids today on 12 highway jobs, including four interstate jobs.

Hallett Construction Co. of Crosby, Minn., submitted the apparent low bid of $1,862,584 for surfacing of about 8.6 miles of Interstate 40 from two miles east of Goodwin to Beech Road about three miles east of Palestine.

J. Brisco Co. of Stillwater, Okla., submitted a bid of $1,580,075 for the surfacing of about 6.6 miles of Interstate 40 from Mayflower to just south of Bramley across Lake Conway.

Bids on other projects, by county, went to:

Monroe — Improvement of Arkansas 86 from Clarendon to 3.5 miles east of Holly Grove. Ben F. Hawkins Co., Lake Village, $194,465.

Polaski — Concrete pavement on 1.96 miles of Interstate 30 from the Rock Island overpass to Little Rock southwestward to the industrial spur near 65th Street. Ben M. Hogan Co., Little Rock, $759,939.

Pope — Grading and structures on 5.5 miles of Interstate 40 from Pottsville to Atkins. D. B. Hill Construction Co., Little Rock, $596,697.

St. Francis and Crittendon — About 24.4 miles of fencing on Interstate 40 from Recks Road west of Forrest City to the Arkansas 23 interchange, and from Shreveport to the West Memphis interchange. Thompson's Fence and Construction Co., Memphis, $95,837.

Arkansas — Widening and surfacing of about 4.3 miles on Arkansas 130 from Amity to the experiment station. D. F. Jones Construction Co., Little Rock, $190,477.

Grading and asphalt paving on Arkansas 197 from the intersection with Arkansas 197 to Ben M. Hogan Co., Inc., and D. B. Hill Co., both of Little Rock, $61,131.

Bradley — Reconstructing and resurfacing with asphalt about 5.3 miles of Arkansas 15 from near Warren's northern city limit to the Saline River relief bridge. Southeast Construction Co., Pine Bluff, $538,400.

Dallas and Calhoun — Reconstructing and paving with asphalt about 2.2 miles of U.S. 79 and U.S. 167 from the Fordway bypass to just northeast of Hamilton. Reynolds and Williams Construction Co., Little Rock, $497,753.

Mississippi — Grading and paving of about 5.9 miles of Arkansas 239 from the junction with Arkansas 181 near Half Moon to the junction with Arkansas 18 near Blytheville, and construction of one bridge. S. J. Cohen Co., Blytheville, alternate No. 2 bid, $291,813.

Crittendon — Construction of a bridge and paving of the approaches on the Amancos-Riceville road. H. N. Rodgers and Sons Co., Memphis, $84,981.

Another Fledgling African Nation

LONDON (AP) — Another fledgling African nation will be knocking on the doors of the United Nations this fall.

The British government has announced that the Territory of Botswana in southern Africa will become independent on Sept. 30. The new nation with almost three times the size of Britain will be called the Republic of Botswana.

The territory's prime minister, Seretse Khama, says he wants to seek membership in the U.N. and the Organization of African Unity. Khama will be the country's first president.

Khama has said Botswana will maintain a multiracial policy for its 500,000 citizens, 90 percent white. Khama's wife was a London secretary before he married her in 1948.

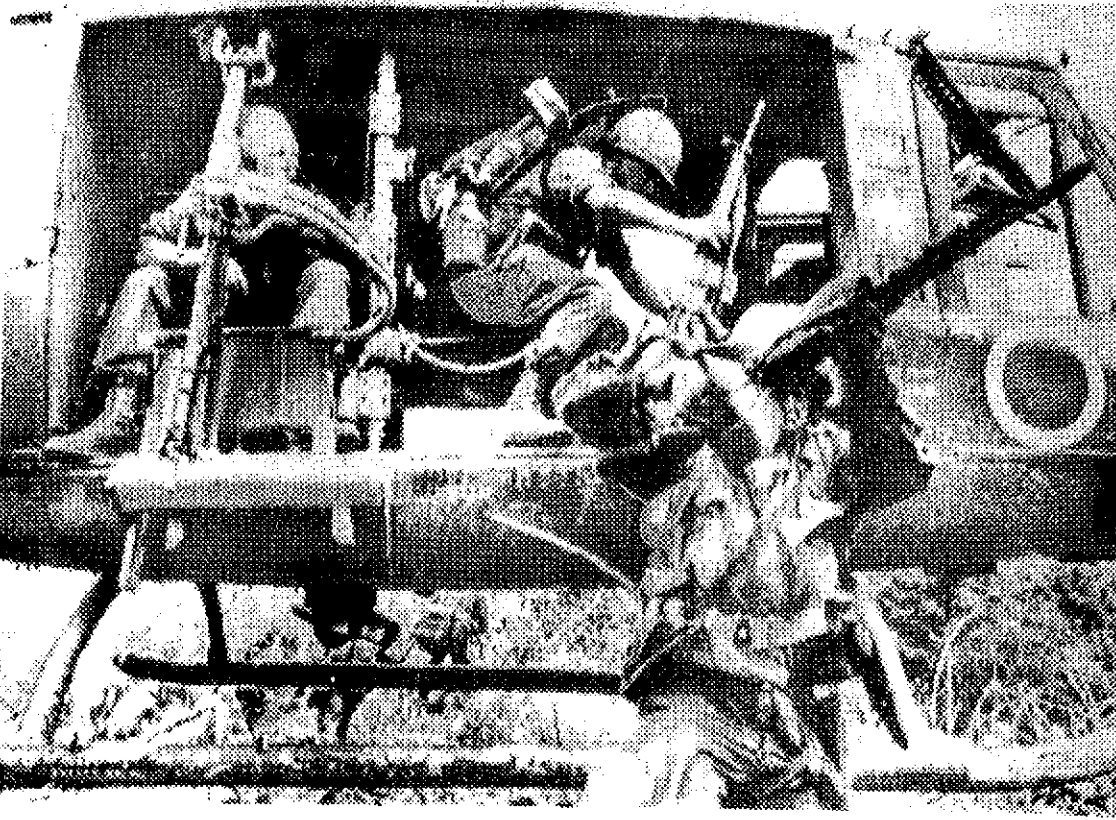

The territory's economy is dominated by the wintered European and South African who surround it.

Clay Now in Trouble Over His Divorce

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — If Cassius Clay doesn't pay the fees for his recent divorce, his former wife's attorney says he is ready to attach Clay's red Cadillac limousine and wardrobe.

He won't need them if he's going to the Army anyway, the attorney, Lawrence Hoffman, said Wednesday.

Hoffman said the combined value would go a long way toward meeting the $22,500 fee the heavyweight champion was ordered to pay when he won a divorce from Sonji Clay.

Clay was to appear in court Wednesday to explain why he hasn't paid Hoffman's fee and the first $12,500 monthly alimony for Sonji. But the hearing was postponed to March 2 because one of Clay's attorneys was ill.

The champion, who did not appear for the hearing, sparred seven rounds in preparation for his title defense against Ernie Terrell March 29.

Clay said he would go to Chicago before the weekend to appear before the Illinois Boxing Commission and attend the Black Muslim convention.

"I've got to be there," Clay said.

Only 4 U.S. Justices Impeached

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House registered a lot of opposition to George H. W. Bush's plan to impeach four U.S. Justices. He has made it clear he will alone, for the House, to impeach and the Senate to remove them.

He said he would not be in the new Congress if they were setting up a precedent by impeaching the Justices.

They were to be impeached by the President and the Senate would remove them.

The process had not yet begun when the House and Senate met today.

Some have been pressing for impeachment since the federal government has been removed from the courts.

Escalation of War Will Get Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress today that if the Communists escalate the war in Asia Reserves will have to be called to active duty.

"Such a contingency," McNamara told a joint session of the Senate's Armed Services Committee and Appropriations subcommittee, "would necessitate at least a partial mobilization, including the callup of some or all of our Reserve forces and the extension of active duty tours."

The defense chief also put it on record that the callup of Reserve units was considered and rejected last summer when the decision was made to beef up American fighting forces in South Viet Nam.

"We anticipated that the conflict would be drawn out and that under those circumstances the Reserves would be a wasting asset if called up for only one year," McNamara said in a 22-page military posture statement. Present statutes limit the callup to one year.

Unless world conditions change, McNamara said, "we cannot look forward to discontinuation of the draft in the coming decade." But he added that under present conditions reliance will continue to be placed on Regular forces.

He suggested that although the authority to draft will continue to be needed, maximum reliance should be placed on the volunteer system.

He put total U.S. military manpower at 2,653,142 for fiscal 1965, but said the number of men in the armed services will rise to an estimated 2,987,343 in fiscal 1966 and 3,093,109 in fiscal 1967.

"Presently, we anticipate that draft calls will continue at a relatively high level during most of this calendar year, with month-to-month fluctuations depending on such factors as the trends in enlistment and re-enlistment," McNamara said.

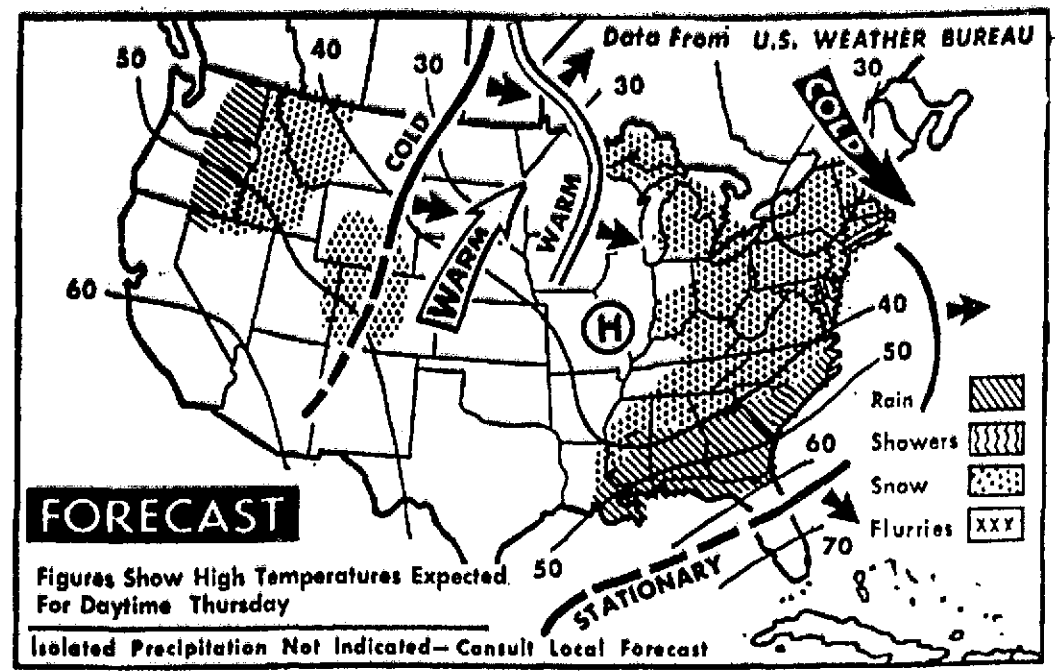

Candidate Did Not Lose Poise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, didn't lose his poise when introduced as a Democrat.

James F. Malone, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, introduced Shafer at the organization's annual dinner by calling him the choice of the "Democratic-I mean Republican executive committee."

Shafer drew a laugh when he started his talk to the heavily Republican group with, "Fellow Democrats..."

Luci to Have 'Dreamlike' Wedding

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson wants her daughter Luci to have a wedding to remember always as "a dream come true."

The First Lady spoke sentimentally and nostalgically in an exclusive interview Wednesday night about the forthcoming marriage of Luci, 18, and Airman Patrick J. Nugent, 22, of Waukegan, Ill.

"I want it to be as personal and as sentimental and as real as I can," she said. "I want it to be a dream come true."

The wedding has been set for high noon, Aug. 6, at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the nation's largest Roman Catholic church.

Because the church can hold thousands it has been assumed that the Johnson-Nugent nuptials will be a huge, very public event in social Washington.

The guest list, Mrs. Johnson said, is yet to be compiled, but it will include only "strictly friends."

Mrs. Johnson explained that the church had been picked by Luci "because it was a church she and Pat have gone to a lot and she has an attachment for it."

The mother of the bride-to-be was asked how she felt about her daughter marrying so young.

"I think any parent would prefer a child to finish her education," she replied, "but on the other hand, I think a year of planning it and a year of being sure about it is a very reasonable approach and I do think Luci is a very feminine, domestic sort of girl for whom this will be right."

Luci has been busily planning already for her wedding and there has been much speculation about her wedding party, which is sure to include her older sister, Lynda, 21, and best friend, Beth Jenkins, daughter of former presidential adviser Walter Jenkins. A student at Marquette University, Beth introduced Pat and Luci last June.

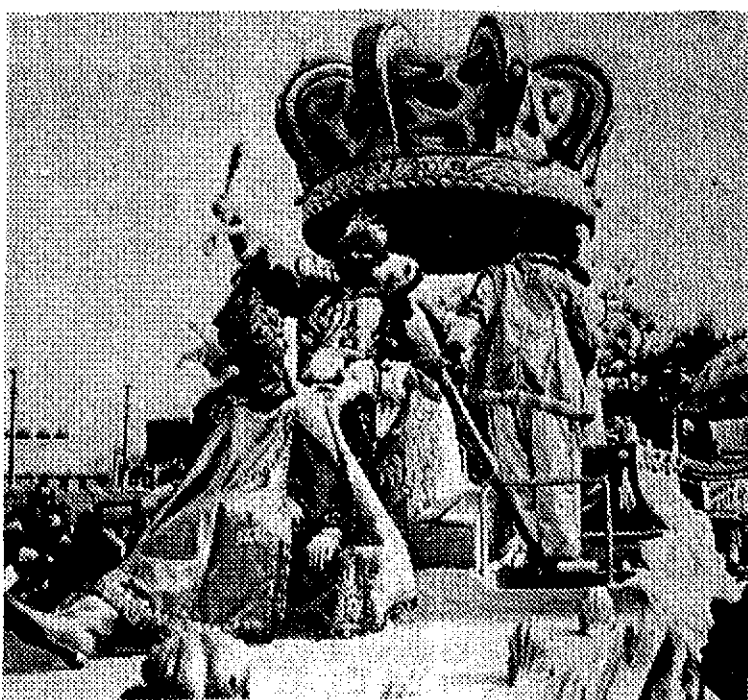

As to whom the wedding party will include, Mrs. Johnson smilingly told the story of Luci as "a little, bitty girl" whose birthday party was to be limited to "just best friends."

"Wide-eyed Luci declared 'but mother I have so many best friends!'"

Then, Mrs. Johnson added "there are quite a few girls who have shared her life" and most likely would be included. But she wouldn't mention any names.

Mrs. Johnson discussed her daughter's wedding as she flew back home from a long day's trip to Denver, Colo., where she spoke out for more beautiful highways for the nation.

She said she plans to clear her official calendar for June and July so she can devote all the time "to my personal life—to try to put together a lovely day to remember—the dream of every girl."

Johnson Feels Critics at a Standoff

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's latest report to the nation on his Vietnamese war policy strongly indicates that he feels his critics in Congress have debated their conflicting views to a standoff without impairing his freedom to act as he deems necessary.

This view of the outcome of the great debate, which is now temporarily subsiding, is, in fact, widely held among Johnson's advisers.

They believe, as presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy suggested Wednesday, that the hawks and the doves have been arguing chiefly with each other, leaving Johnson full scope to carry on the limited war against Communist conquest.

In a talk at the National Press Club here Bundy said it appears that among Congress members the discontent is more "with other sectors of the Congress in real terms, than with the policies of the administration."

The view is debatable. Doubtless both "doves" and "hawks" in Congress — those who urge some quick way to end the war and those who favor stepped-up military action — disagree with it. Both sides have primarily attacked the administration rather than each other. Yet Johnson's view of the outcome of the argument is of critical importance: he is the executive with the power of decision and action.

Johnson's speech in New York Wednesday night emphasized repeated assurances that he does not intend to escalate the war and does not believe a wide war is inevitable. Having studied the debate off and on several weeks, he appeared to have decided that the major question posed for his comment lay in expressed fears that the Vietnamese conflict might lead to war with China and perhaps even nuclear war with the Soviet Union.

HELEN HELP US!

Pretty Girls Don't Send Him out. In senior hi, we "go around" Dear Helen: What do you mean with someone. That usually think about a boy who won't means we date only one boy or date pretty girls? If they say they girl at time, but there's none are all alike if they have got of this silly business about a good looks — spilled, selfish, vain ring, and the big break-up and short on brains. He says that the pretty girls have to work harder so they're nicer to be with, and, besides, they're grateful.

I'm very good looking, and, not bragging, I can get almost any boy I want, but they bore me, so I don't keep them long. They don't seem to know how to talk to a girl.

How can I make the one I really want realize that just because I'm pretty I'm not just skin-deep? — Beautiful Soul.

Dear B. S.: Nothing you said in your letter would indicate this boy is wrong — about you, anyway. Think plain for a change, and you may see that you're the dull one. A girl who brags she can get any boy she wants but doesn't keep them long should exchange her "I'm particular" badge for an "I Try Harder" button. — H.

Dear Helen: You said "going steady" is getting less popular, and it is, at our high school anyway. That's because it's "kid stuff." All the little junior kids "go steady." Of course that only means they walk down the halls together or maybe see each other on a Saturday afternoon, but anyway this shows us older kids how silly it looks. Dear Yuk: If a "gruey" film can save ONE person from a wreck, it's worth a few queasy stomachs. That person might be you. — H.

Dear Helen: My parents won't let me ride a horse because once my mother rode one and it threw her. If you ask me it's just tough oranges that her horse went wild. I'd be riding under supervision and the horse is gentle. Is this fair? — Horse Lover

Dear H.L.: It isn't fair, but it's understandable. Mothers get scared easily where their children are concerned. Maybe a talk with the owner of this gentle horse would help. — H.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

You Have to Want to Live In Order to Quit Smoking

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Will a pipe smoker who inhales be as likely to get lung cancer as a cigarette smoker? Could smoking cigarettes cause pain in the chest? How can I stop smoking?

A—In one study, limited to men, the death rate per 100,000 from lung cancer among cigarette smokers was 127, among pipe smokers 39, and among nonsmokers 13. Heavy smoking is associated with an increase in the incidence of lung cancer, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, tuberculosis and coronary heart disease. Chest pain is associated with only one of these—heart disease.

Quitting smoking is a tough problem for most confirmed smokers. It takes a great deal of will power. Without strong motivation failure can be assured. Some persons are benefited by such psychological props as substituting gum chewing for smoking, self-hypnosis with the aid of a specially prepared record, drinking more water, getting more outdoor exercise and getting adequate rest so that nervous tension is reduced. In the last analysis, however, you've got to want to live more than you want to smoke.

Q—What is the difference between an M.D., D.O. and D.C.? Can a D.O. or D.C. do major surgery?

A—An M.D. is a doctor of medicine and is permitted by law to use any form of treatment he thinks will benefit his patient. A D.O. is a doctor of osteopathy. The schools of osteopathy have increased their requirements and broadened their scope in recent years. They now use drugs and perform major surgery.

The story on doctors of chiropractic is more complicated. In general they fall into two groups: Those who limit their practice to manipulations of the spinal column and those who do everything an M.D. does except prescribe drugs. This includes the use of X-rays for diagnosis; treatment with ultrasound, diathermy, heat, diet including vitamin supplements and colonic irrigations. In some states they may be licensed, not as chiropractors, but as drugless healers.

Q—The doctor says my husband has bulbar palsy. Is there any cure for it?

A—In this disease the tongue, jaws and palate are paralyzed and speech, chewing and swallowing are difficult. In some victims there may also be some weakness of the neck and shoulder muscles. The disease may be caused by hemorrhage into the spinal cord just below the brain, by a tumor in this region or by chronic degeneration of unknown cause. Treatment is unsatisfactory.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Diamond Ace Is Threat in West

By JACOB & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winner
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here is another of Eddie Kantar's hands from the San Fernando Valley Bridge Set. This time you are in a normal four-spade contract and West opens a trump.

You win in your own hand and note that although both you and your partner have full values for your bids the chances are that, if West holds the ace of diamonds, you are going to go down.

Is there anything you can do about this? Yes! You can try a deceptive play that may work.

You win the first trick in your hand and lead a heart toward dummy. West plays low and you rise with dummy's king. Now you return to your hand with another trump and lead a second low heart.

If West is alert he will go right up with the ace but West isn't always alert. He should realize that if you actually hold four small hearts you would have played the jack from dummy the first time. If you started with two or three small hearts he has nothing to lose by playing his ace. On the other hand, he does not see what he has to lose by ducking if he assumes that you do have the queen of hearts.

So he ducks and he finds out what he loses almost immediately. You cash dummy's ace and king of clubs, ruff dummy's last club and lead your queen of hearts.

West wins with his ace and is stone cold dead in the market. If he leads a diamond you make your king. If he leads his last club you get a ruff and discard. Either way you chalk up the rubber.

What do you do?

A—Either a pass or a bid of three no-trumps is acceptable.

It all depends on just how sound your partner's two no-trump bid is likely to be.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding, partner passes at one no-trump. East doubles. What do you now?

Would Set Up Economic Dissenters

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Creation of a permanent Minority Economic Council to champion the dissenting economic views of the party out of power was proposed today by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo.

Curtis, senior House Republican on the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, made his proposal in a statement prepared for a symposium observing the 20th anniversary of the Employment Act of 1946.

"That act formally fixed maximum production, employment and purchasing power as the overriding goals of national economic policy. It established the joint congressional committee and the President's Council of Economic Advisers to help attain the goals."

The symposium was organized as a special hearing of the congressional committee but was to be held in a large hotel ballroom. The invited participants included chairmen and members of the President's Council during the Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

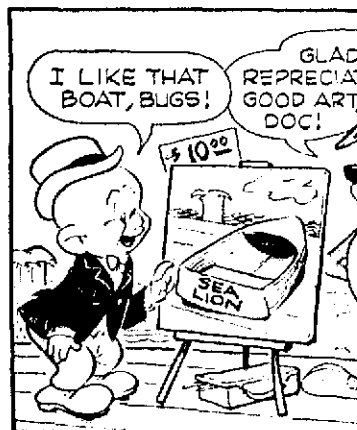

"Debate on economic issues is today not extensive enough or thorough enough," Curtis said. "It needs a better informed, institutionalized challenger, able to refine and clarify economic policy issues."

Curtis said that while the executive branch has vast research and statistical resources at its command and "a strong attraction for private advisers" the minority party in Congress lacks such resources.

To bring "informed dissenters" together, he said, the Minority Economic Council would be appointed by a "board of directors" consisting of the ranking minority members of the Senate and House committees dealing with economic affairs—the Joint Economic, Senate Finance, House Ways and Means, both Banking Committee and both Appropriations Committees.

"This Minority Economic Council would be responsible to whichever party does not control the White House, and would be funded by Congress," Curtis explained. The services of its full-time staff would be available to all minority members of Congress.

The American frontier rifle was the first infantry firearm of precision. At the battle of Bunker Hill, the Americans inflicted casualties of 45 per cent with their limited ammunition by taking "aim at the handsome waistcoats" of the British troops. It took longer to reload than the smooth-bore musket, but it had greater range and accuracy.

Hope Third in District 4-AA Rankings

The Crossett Eagles with one foot in the door could sew up their second Div. 4AA championship in sports for the current school year. The Eagles basketball team has a 11-1 record entering the final two weeks of play. Smackover with a 3-3 mark is the only team with a chance and they have one more game with the Eagles. Crossett won the 4AA football championship.

Four teams are still battling for the third and fourth place berths in the standings and a trip to the state meet. Hope, Warren, Arkadelphia, and Fairview still are in the race for the third and fourth spot.

Results: Arkadelphia 62 Malvern 55; Malvern 65 Warren 63; Hope 76, Arkadelphia 74; Arkadelphia 75, Camden 49; Fairview 82, Magnolia 65; Warren 81, Camden 50; Hope 76, Arkadelphia 74; Crossett 82, Hope 67; Crossett 74, Malvern 64. (Game reports not received on Arkadelphia at Hope; Hope at Crossett; Malvern at Crossett although score is included and w-l listed in standings).

Games this week: Friday — Smackover at Magnolia; Warren at Hope; Fairview at Arkadelphia; Crossett at Camden. Saturday — Hope at Malvern; Arkadelphia at Smackover; Camden at Warren; Crossett at Fairview.

Barry McMahan of Fairview held onto the individual scoring leadership as he upped his total to 259 points. Charley Ashley of Arkadelphia move into second place with 244 points.

Cheney State Best Small College Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cheney State, running its unbeaten string to 24 with a pair of victories, has zoomed to the top of The Associated Press small-college basketball rankings.

The Wolves from Pennsylvania took over first place from the Southern Illinois Salukis, who had led the nationwide poll for seven straight weeks. The Salukis dropped all the way to fourth after taking their fifth loss of the season, 85-83 to Indiana State Saturday night.

Five of the 14 experts on AP's panel put Cheney first on their ballots. Runner-up North Dakota, 20-3, got three firsts; Grambling, 19-3, received one and stayed in third, and two went to Southern Illinois.

Sixth-ranked Northern Michigan, Abilene Christian and Colorado State College collected the three other firsts.

Indiana State climbed from ninth to fifth with its victory over Southern Illinois. North Michigan fell one spot to sixth. Tennessee State and Evansville remained seventh and eighth. Seattle Pacific moved up one place to ninth and Youngstown, beaten twice last week, went from sixth to 10th.

The Top Ten, with records through Saturday, Feb. 19, and points:

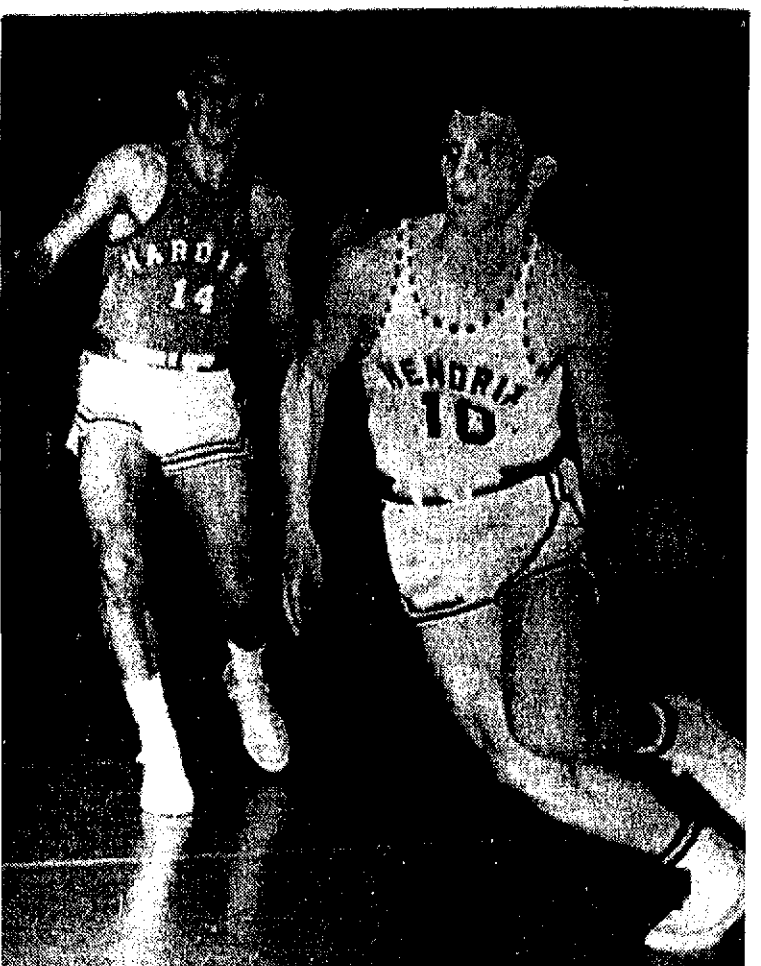

Rank	Team	Record	Points
1	Cheyney State	24-0	105
2	North Dakota	20-3	89
3	Grambling	19-3	83

And the Dodgers' reaction? Well, it went this way: "No question, Koufax and Drysdale are extremely valuable players," said Vice President and General Manager E. J. (Buzze) Bavis.

"They want a lot of money, and I want to give them a lot, but their idea of the word 'lot' might be different than mine."

"It is true that I have been thinking in terms of around $100,000, but nothing has been settled on a figure. I haven't made them a formal offer yet," he added.

Koufax, 30, a two-time Cy Young Award winner who won 26 games last season, was not available for comment.

Drysdale, 29, however, said "I will not comment on the figures, which would put me in the position of negotiating through the newspapers."

"However," he added, "Sandy and I are grown up and this is a business affair. We want to handle it the way we feel right and in a proper manner for all concerned."

"It is not up to me to say what the terms are, or to comment on the position of our attorney," Drysdale explained. He is also a Cy Young Award winner.

The Dodgers, of course, should have cash enough to meet the demands, however much it seems to hurt.

They've had four golden years in Dodger Stadium, setting attendance records right and left. Season attendance figures have bobbed around the 2.5-million mark.

And even the front office concedes that Koufax on the mound is good for an extra 8,000 to 10,000 fans per game, and that Drysdale and Willis are also strong magnets.

It is generally believed here that Drysdale received $75,000 last year and Koufax $74,000.

Expensive Salvation for Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If money is the root of all evil the Los Angeles Dodgers — who've reaped bushels of the sinful stuff in recent years — seem to be in the path of some expensive salvation.

The Bums' saviors — nitpicking whizzes Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, and shortstop Maury Wills — are aiming at parting the Dodgers from some of that filthy lucre. More than a million, to be far from exact.

Nobody's saying anything about exact figures, but one source Tuesday said Koufax is seeking $600,000 on a three-year contract and Drysdale is after $450,000 on a similar deal.

Another source said Koufax and Drysdale each sought $500,000 on three-year contracts.

And what about Wills, the Dodgers' super base — swiper? Wills said earlier he is willing to be angelic and settle for "the same money" as the two ace pitchers. This was before the new $1-million figure was revealed.

Go Ahead on Conway I-40 Segment

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Highway Department plans to go ahead with the Conway segment of Interstate 40, the Highway Commission said Tuesday.

Highway Director Mack Sturgis announced last fall that right of way acquisition for I-40 in the Conway area had been halted, blaming excessive jury awards and the inability of the Highway Department to buy land at the appraised value.

Henry Grey, chief of way division director, met with way residents since Sturgis' announcement, discussing the department's program and attitude. As a result, he said, Wayne Hampton, commission chairman, authorized him to say that "right of way acquisition for the construction of Interstate 40 through the Conway area is proceeding in a routine manner."

Grey said this means that there is no change in the right of way route and the highway

NCAA Didn't Waste Time Picking Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The NCAA didn't waste any time filling its field for next month's postseason tournament that determines the national collegiate basketball champion.

Within a few hours after the starting time Wednesday to make selections, the NCAA had landed eight at-large teams, including Texas Western, Chicago Loyola and Providence from The Associated Press Top Ten, to round out its 23-team field.

The NIT, the other major postseason tourney, announced the selection of five teams, headed by defending champion St. John's of New York, leaving nine still to be named for its 14-team field.

In addition to unbeaten Texas Western, 20-0, third in The AP poll, fourth-ranked Chicago Loyola, 20-2, and ninth-ranked Providence, 20-3; Oklahoma City, 21-1; Houston, 19-4; Dayton, 19-4; Syracuse, 18-4, and Colorado State U., 12-6, were tapped for the NCAA that opens March 7 and ends March 19.

Western Kentucky, 20-2, the Ohio Valley Conference champion, and the still-to-be determined winners of 14 other conferences complete the NCAA field.

Virginia Tech, 19-4; Boston College, 17-4; De Paul, 17-5, and Penn State, 16-1, accepted bids to the NIT along with St. John's, 17-5. The NIT opens in New York March 10 and ends Saturday afternoon, March 19.

Chicago Loyola is pitted against Western Kentucky at Kent, Ohio, in one of the first-round games at four regional sites that kick off the NCAA on March 7. This game will follow one between Dayton and the winner of the Mid-American Conference, Toledo or Miami of Ohio.

Pairings for the other March 7 first-round games:

At Philadelphia: Southern Conference champion vs. Yankee Conference champion. Syracuse vs. Ivy League champion, with provision that if Penn wins the Ivy, game will be shifted to Blacksburg, Va., March 8.

At Wichita, Kan. — Texas Western vs. Oklahoma City. Houston vs. Colorado State U.

At Blacksburg, Va. March 8 — Providence vs. Middle Atlantic champion.

The winners of these games then move on to the regional finals March 11-12 at Raleigh, N.C.; Iowa City; Lubbock, Tex., and Los Angeles.

This is the set-up for March 11:

Midwest at Iowa City — Southeastern Conference champion vs. Winner of Dayton-Mid-American Conference. Big Ten champion vs. winner of Western Kentucky-Chicago Loyola.

Midwest at Lubbock, Tex. — Big Eight champion vs. Southwestern Conference champion. Winner of Texas Western-Oklahoma City vs. Missouri Valley Conference champion.

Far West at Los Angeles — winner of Houston-Colorado State U. vs. Pacific Athletic Conference champion. Western Athletic Conference champion vs. West Coast Athletic Conference champion.

The winners of these eight games play each other on Saturday, March 12, with the four survivors moving on to the national semifinals and championship game at College Park, Md., March 18-19.

Rookie Has Hockey Loop in a Jumble

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Toronto's fourth-string goalie and New York's 27-year-old rookie have the National Hockey League race jumbled again today.

The Maple Leafs, with regulars Terry Sawchuk and Johnny Bower sidelined by injuries, lost minor league replacement Gary Smith with a leg injury early in the first period of Wednesday night's game against first-place Chicago.

So, the Leafs had to call on 19-year-old Al Smith, a Junior A goalie, to fill in against Bobby Hull and Co., and all he did make 32 saves and blank Hull as Toronto shaded the Black Hawks 3-2.

That gave third-place Detroit and runner-up Montreal an excellent opportunity to tighten the race but only the Canadiens succeeded.

Montreal needed a pair of third-period goals to slip by Boston 3-2 but Detroit ran into New York goalie Cesare Maniago's first NHL shutout and bowed to the Rangers 5-0.

That left the Canadiens and Black Hawks tied for the top spot with 65 points and Detroit still four points back in third place. Fourth-place Toronto is 10 points off the pace.

Maniago, getting his first real NHL shot at 27 after brief stints at Montreal and Toronto, was thrilled by the shutout, the first New York has managed in 14 months.

"It's my first in the NHL, and I'm going to save that puck," he smiled.

Appraisals still are based on the actual market value of the land as determined by comparable sales.

He said the department is not paying any inflated prices for land for the highway.

Delta Region May Be Organized

WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., proposed Monday that Arkansas link with part of Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and Missouri to form a Delta Regional Economic Commission.

McClellan said some Arkansas counties might be left out of the Ozark development program proposed for the mountainous region of the state.

Formation of such multi-state regions, patterned after the Appalachia program is provided for in an economic development bill passed by Congress last year.

Commerce Secretary John T. Connor said Monday he has invited the governors of Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri to Washington March 1 for the beginning of the Ozark program.

Connor said the official designation of the Ozark boundary lines will be made then.

In Long Political Battle

MORRILTON, ARK. — WIRGES AND COURTS — Former newspaper publisher Gene Wirges stands by the entrance to chancery and circuit courts at Morrilton, the center of his legal battles stemming from his fight with the Conway County political establishment. (AP Wirephoto)

Morrilton in 1961. Hawkins said he and other county officials were ready to support the city manager proposal because they, too, believed that Morrilton needed the civic improvements it could bring.

Then Hawkins heard by the grapevine that the group backing city manager government had pledged to clean out the courthouse after it cleaned up the city. Hawkins said the confronted the group with what he had heard.

"How could you expect me to sit idly by and let you boys defeat me?" he says he asked. "I make my living at this. You've forced me to take a stand."

The sheriff has not had a peaceful moment since that confrontation.

The tumult of the last few years is in marked contrast to most of the 20 years Hawkins spent in public office between 1940 and 1960.

Hawkins arrived at the courthouse 25 years ago with the best kind of credentials for a career politician.

He was a poor boy who had worked to support a widowed mother and five brothers and sisters.

He had served an apprenticeship on the public payroll as an employee of the Emergency Relief Administration, a county welfare worker and a deputy sheriff.

He was content then to run for the relatively inconspicuous office of circuit and chancery clerk.

Hawkins was elected by 1,415 votes. He was re-elected without opposition in 1942, re-elected while away in the Army in 1944, elected county treasurer without opposition in 1946 and re-elected without opposition in 1948.

Ambition overtook him in 1950. He challenged Sheriff Elmer Thomas and beat him in a contested Democratic primary. Thomas opposed him as an independent in the general election and Hawkins won again.

He beat back an effort by the faction he had defeated to unseat him in 1952. He was not to have opposition again until Wirges put together a slate of candidates in 1962.

Hawkins denies Wirges' charge that he is the head of an iron-fisted political organization.

"This co-called organization is just a group of friends who stick together like chickens," he said.

"Gene says Marlin is the head of this organization," remarked County Judge Tom Scott. "Marlin goes around telling everybody else that they are the head of it."

Hawkins' friends say he owes his political strength to his willingness to do favors, even at great personal inconvenience.

"He helps people," said Dr. Ed Hickey, mayor of Morrilton. "He can't always do what people want him to, but he tries."

"We've got a lot of young people who have left this county and their parents still live here, out in the country, without a telephone," Scott said. "When they need to contact the old folks, they know they can call Marlin and he'll get the word through at any hour of the day or night."

Hawkins maintains that he did not move personally against Wirges until the editor charged at an Oct. 1, 1964, news conference that he had evidence of mismanagement of funds in the sheriff's office.

Hawkins responded by asking for grand jury consideration of the possibility that Wirges had slandered him.

Before the grand jury met, the Wirges faction had Hawkins arrested on a basis of some of the evidence Wirges had collected. Hawkins posted bond.

The charges were later invalidated by the circuit court. When the grand jury met, it indicted Wirges on charges of slander and conspiracy to have Hawkins falsely arrested. It said it found no evidence of misconduct in the sheriff's office.

"I've been investigated by the FBI, the governor's office, the state auditors and the grand jury," Hawkins says. "Everyone has given me a clean bill of health. What kind of proof does Wirges want?"

Wirges was convicted of perjury in Conway County Circuit Court and sentenced to three years in prison. The case will be appealed and Wirges remains free on bond.

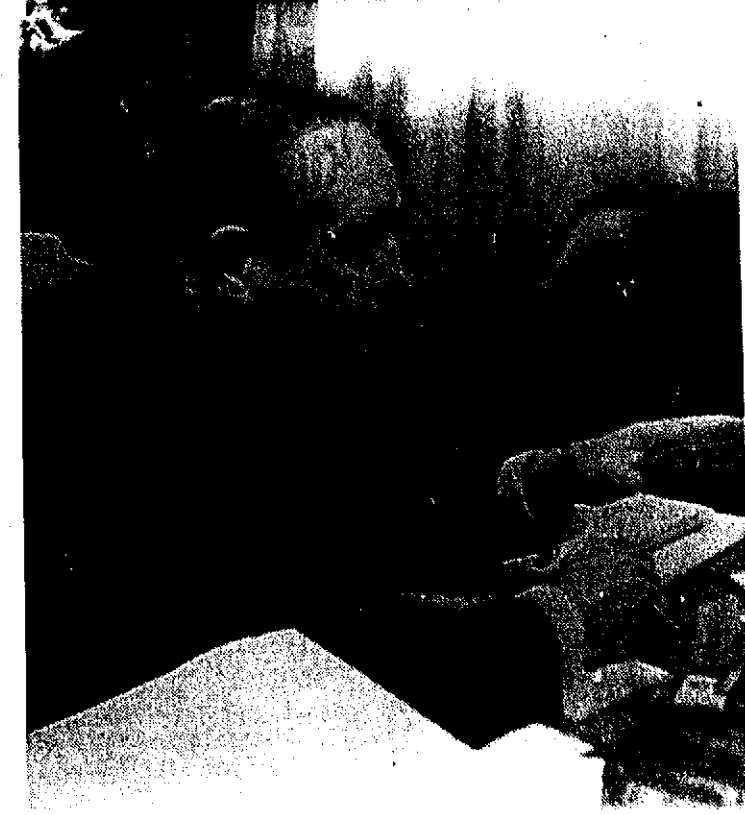

Hawkins is aware that the conviction, even if it held up in appellate courts, would not stop Wirges.

"This fight won't end until Rockefeller gets tired of trying to beat me," Hawkins said. "I don't believe that Gene Wirges or Winthrop Rockefeller can buy, beg or steal my friends in Conway County."

Hawkins contends that Wirges started the fight to build circulation for his newspaper and that he has continued it because he has been able to get financial help from Rockefeller.

He and Wirges agree that open warfare started after Hawkins and the courthouse team helped defeat a city manager government proposal in

Cagy About Political Plans

LITTLE ROCK — NOW, LISTEN — Gov. Orval Faubus makes a point during a news conference Wednesday, his first after a two-week vacation in Florida. He still was cagy about whether he will run for a seventh term as governor, but indicated he would announce his decision soon. (AP Wirephoto)

Faubus Says Only He Can Beat the Rock

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said today a poll being conducted by his friends indicates that only a small majority of those polled want him to seek a seventh term.

But, Faubus said, solid majorities would support him in both the Democratic primary and the general election.

The governor, fresh from a two-week Florida vacation, then declared that: "At this moment there is no other Democratic candidate who can defeat Republican Winthrop Rockefeller."

"I know what I'm saying is a self-serving statement and will draw rejoinders from others who want to run," Faubus said.

He said his information was based on regular polls which showed him to be the only candidate who has consistently led Rockefeller month by month.

"And that's not a certainty," he said. "It's 10 months until the general election and this man is a formidable candidate."

Faubus said he drove back to Arkansas Monday and spent Tuesday at the mansion reading his mail. He said he knew little about political development in Arkansas during the two weeks he was gone.

The poll from which he quoted, Faubus said, was not initiated by him, but he had heard about it before he went to Florida and the people who conducted it delivered part of the tabulation to him Tuesday night.

"It coincides closely with my own poll," he said.

The initial tabulation, he said, was based on 7,510 replies.

He declined to identify the persons who sponsored the poll.

Faubus said the poll showed that he could recover seven of the 10 counties he lost to Rockefeller in 1964.

"But I'd probably still lose Pulaski, Searcy and Sebastian, and the poll showed I would lose three that I carried before, Clark, Craighead and Saline," he said.

Asked for comment on Justice Jim Johnson's assertion that the poll was a draft-Faubus move started by Faubus himself, the governor replied: "He said a lot of things."

Faubus said the poll showed he would carry Greene County by 2-1 in the general election. He was questioned about Greene County because a poll conducted by the Paragould Daily Press indicated he might lose the county by 4-1.

The governor said he knew nothing about a move by friends to raise $70,000 to pay for the house he is building at Huntsville. Asked if he would accept any money that might be raised, he replied: "It depends on where it comes from. If it's from Rockefeller, I wouldn't accept it."

He said he had not heard of criticism by the Legislative Audit Committee of his spending $20,000 from the emergency fund to pay the debts of the Arkansas Horse Show Association.

Faubus said he had heard that Sen. Jim Ramey of Warren had deserted the Democratic Party and filed for re-election as a Republican.

"There will always be people who make mistakes," Faubus said.

The governor said he still favors a special primary to select a Democratic nominee in the 4th District congressional race and that no election should be held until a lawsuit to determine boundaries of the dis-

Group to Get Convicted of Slaying Report From Humphrey

By HARRY KELLY

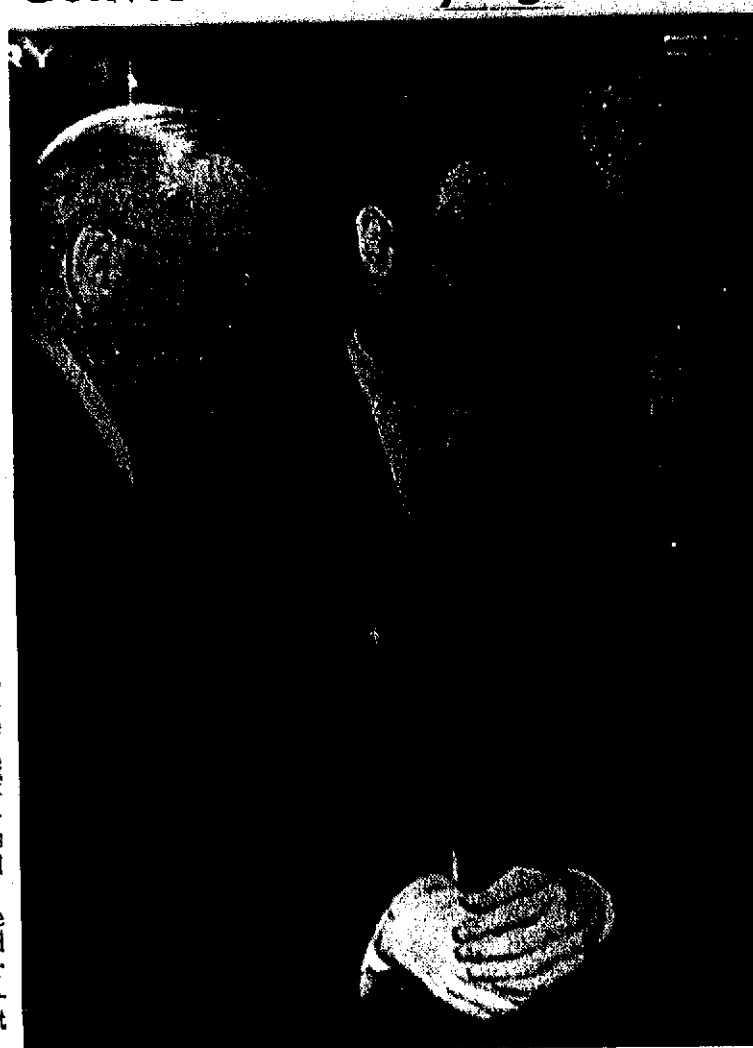

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson gets his chance to pour some Texas oil on troubled congressional seas today as he brings partisans of the Viet Nam debate together to hear Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's report on his whirlwind Asian trip.

Humphrey and what Johnson described as his "mission of peace" to nine countries has also been pulled into the debate with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee seeking to question the vice president about the commitments he made, specifically in foreign aid.

Thus Humphrey, who returned Wednesday night, barely had time to shake the dust of the Orient from his shoes before stepping back into the center of things with his briefing of congressional leaders and Congress members most deeply involved in Viet Nam legislation.

From them have come the most vocal of the hawks and doves in the argument over whether the United States is doing too much or too little in Viet Nam.

Johnson sought to ease worries of some of the doves Wednesday night when he declared in a New York speech that the United States is not caught up "in a blind escalation of force," inching toward a broader war. Addressing a Freedom House dinner at which he received the group's annual National Freedom Award, Johnson said, "Our measured use of force must be continued. But this is prudent firmness under careful control. There is not, and there will not be, a mindless escalation."

Johnson's speech brought a cautious note of gratification from Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee whose hearings on Viet Nam have been the storm center of the debate. "I take encouragement from the President's statement," he said. But he added, "What has concerned me is we have had one escalation after another while being assured we sought no broader war."

1-Eyed Castro Has Hawkins Bristling

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Sheriff Marlin Hawkins bristles when he is called a one-eyed Castro.

The uncomplimentary nickname is only one of several given Hawkins by supporters of editor Gene Wirges during the five-year political fight in Conway County.

But this one digs under the thick skin Hawkins has developed and scrapes his sensitivity about the eye he lost when he was eight.

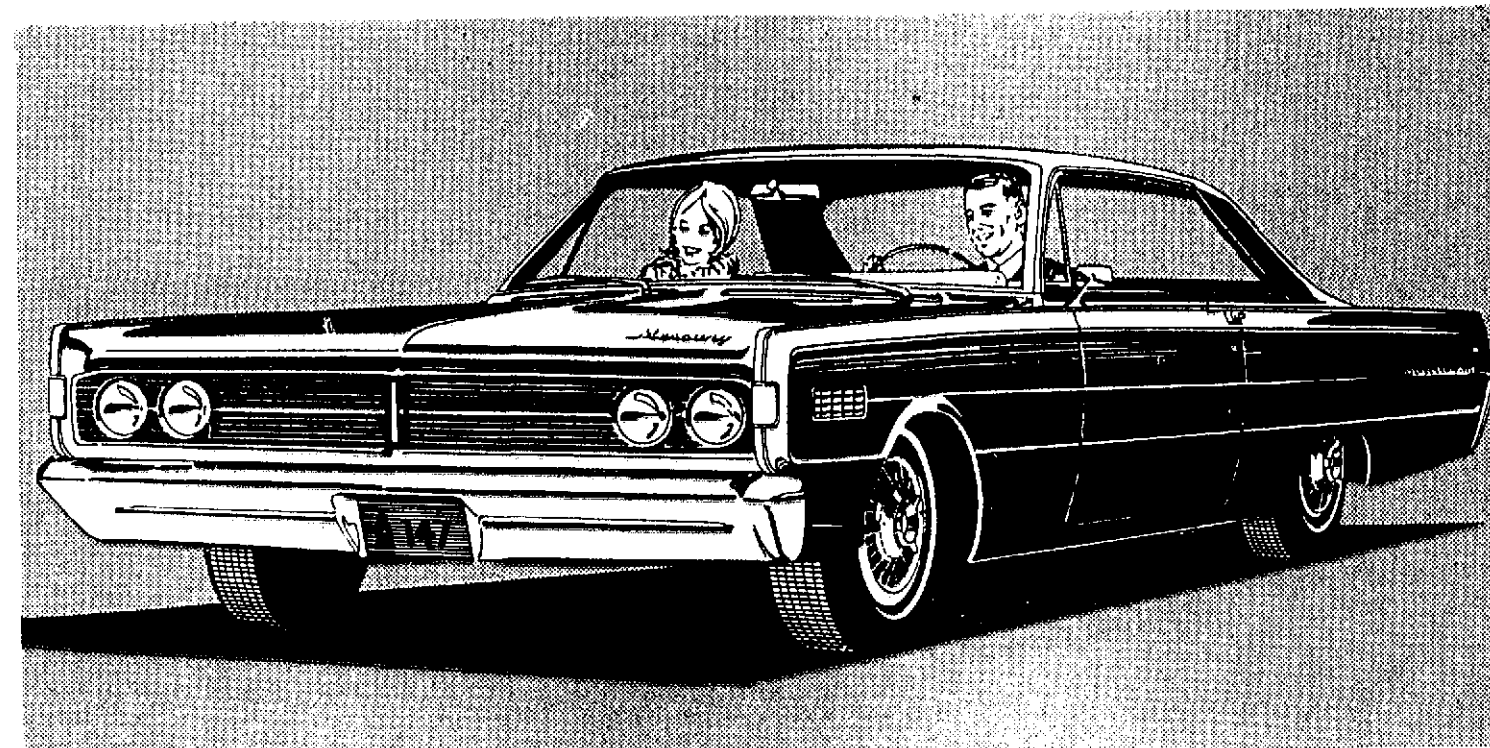

Wirges bought the Morrilton Democrat in 1957 and declared all-out war on the Conway County political establishment in 1961.

"I had no choice but to fight," Hawkins says. "I make my living as a public official. I've been protecting myself. Do you blame me?"

Hawkins' hand is not as overwhelming as it might be in another county. Wirges has the backing of Winthrop Rockefeller, a resident of Conway County, and good insurance against Wirges being forced out of bus-

Caramel Rolls for Breakfast

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

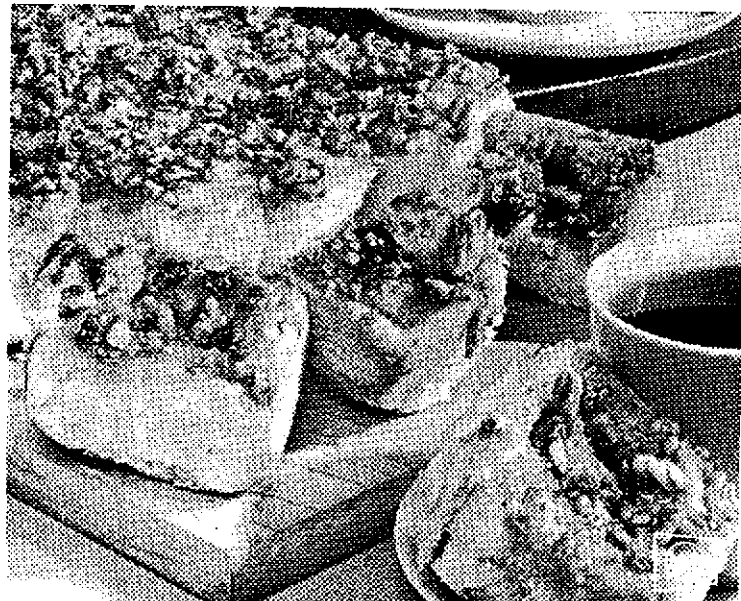

Logs burning in the fireplace and the fragrance of rolls in the oven are still two of the most cherished experiences of men, even in this electronic age.

That's why this recipe for caramel pin wheel rolls should be welcome news. Of course, if you want to, you can enjoy them with a cup of coffee before the fire.

CARMEL PIN WHEEL ROLLS

- (Makes 18 rolls)
- 1 package active dry yeast
 - 1 cup warm water
 - 1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1/2 cup soft butter
 - 1 egg
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 3 to 3 1/2 cups instant blending flour
 - 10-ounce jar caramel sauce
 - 1/2 cup chopped pecans
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Soften yeast in warm water in large mixer bowl. Add 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup butter, egg, salt and 1 1/2 cups flour. Beat 3 minutes at medium speed of mixer, scraping sides of bowl. Reduce speed; gradually add remaining flour to form a stiff dough. The last additions of flour may be stirred in with a spoon. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled, about 45 minutes.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in 13x9-inch pan. Drizzle with caramel sauce; sprinkle with pecans.

Toss dough on floured surface until no longer sticky. Knead 15 times, about 30 seconds. Roll out dough on floured surface to an 18x12-inch rectangle. Spread with 2 tablespoons butter. Sprinkle with mixture of 2 tablespoons sugar and cinnamon. Starting with 18-inch side, roll up jelly-roll fashion. Cut into 18 1-inch slices; place, cut side down in pan. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled, about 45 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Cool 1 minute; invert onto wire rack over waxed paper. Let stand 1 minute before removing from pan.

Try This Meatless Meal-in-a-Dish

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

With the beginning of Lent, meatless protein dishes are in order. But let's make them interesting, easy to prepare and really good to eat.

Canned tuna, of course, is probably the most popular of all fish. So let's begin with a very tempting recipe.

In this quick Tuna-Rice Curry Skillet, the delicate flavor of canned tuna blends deliciously with a base of undiluted celery soup seasoned with curry powder, apple and onion. It is served garnished with peanuts, raisins, coconut and green pepper.

TUNA-RICE CURRY SKILLET

- (Serves 4)
- 2 cans (6 1/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
 - 1 medium apple, pared and chopped
 - 1 medium onion, chopped
 - 1 1/2 cups water
 - 1 can condensed cream of celery soup
 - 1/2 cup each chopped peanuts, raisins, flaked coconut, chopped green pepper, chutney
 - 1 1/4 cups packaged pre-cooked rice

TUNA-RICE CURRY SKILLET is great for Lent.

1 or 2 teaspoons curry powder

1/2 teaspoon salt

Drain oil from tuna into skillet. Heat oil, add apple and onion. Cook slowly until soft, about 10 minutes. Add water, green pepper, stir skillet. Serve with chutney.

to blend. Stir in rice. Pile tuna in center of skillet. Bring mixture to a boil, cover and let stand 5 minutes. Fluff rice with fork. Sprinkle with chopped peanuts, raisins, coconut and chopped green pepper. Serve with chutney.

Capital No Mystery to Chuck Honey

By JOHN R. STARR

Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) Washington will pose no mystery to Charles F. (Chuck) Honey II, the 27-year-old Prescott attorney, is elected to Congress from the 4th District this year.

Honey spent the last five years on capitol hill, the first two on the staff of Sen. J. William Fulbright and the last three as the chief aide of the man he is running to replace, Rep. Owen Harris.

Honey, heavy set with thinning hair and a deep voice, believes this five years makes him the best qualified candidate in the race. He is one of five Democratic candidates.

He filed Tuesday in both the regular July 26 primary and a special primary if one is held before then. Three of the other candidates have not filed for the regular primary.

Honey was rumored as a candidate as soon as he left Harris to set up a law practice in Prescott last December. He announced in January.

His interest in politics stems, Honey said, from his father, a "curbstone politician." His father is a retired sawmill worker.

He said he expects his main political support to come from people of modest means because they are his kind of people.

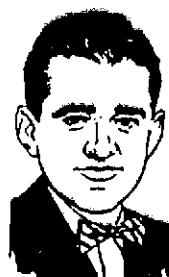

But he expects help too, from public officials he met while working for Fulbright and Harris and from Harris' friends, with whom he worked closely during the last three years.

Honey was born and reared in Prescott. He worked as a janitor at Prescott High School, he said, to help pay for his education.

He worked as an ambulance driver and a deputy sheriff in Fayetteville to get through the University of Arkansas with a degree in government and political science. A year before he was graduated, he married the former Betty Campbell of Laneburg, a community near Prescott.

show beat autographed feature

Still Li'l Ol' Inger Stensland

By DICK KLEINER

Hollywood Correspondent, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

From her cozy cushion of security, Inger Stevens faces the future bravely. Come what may, she will be content.

Her ABC show, The Farmer's Daughter, has finished its season of filming. Now comes the waiting—will it be renewed or won't it?

If it is—"That will be nice," says Inger, "because that will then be our fourth year, and that's when you begin to make some real money."

If it isn't—"It won't break my heart. No, I don't take it that seriously. If the love of my life rode off on a white charger with another girl, that would break my heart. But not if the show was dropped."

SHE'LL KNOW IN A MONTH or so. Meanwhile, there is a life to be led, and Inger Stevens is a dedicated life-leader.

"It's a wonderful feeling," she says, with a happy smile on her happy face. "To be free for a while is marvelous. I don't think I'll do anything for six weeks. I want to sleep late and I want to look at the sun and I want to stay up until two or three or four in the morning if I feel like it."

No matter what happens, Inger now has something she didn't have when the show began, three years ago. She has security.

"Security, both financial and professional," she says. "It's a very good feeling. I am comfortable from now on—I can't live like Paul Getty, but I can get by."

Her success, she feels, hasn't radically altered her way of life. She isn't the extravagant sort. In her years in Hollywood, she has only owned three cars. She has bought a new house, but it isn't split-level lavish.

"All I want and need in a house," she says, "is someplace I can come home to and be comfortable. This is a small house, but it has everything I need—two bedrooms, a studio, a steam bath, a swimming pool and a pool table."

She thinks, too, that success has not changed her personality, either.

"I still feel like the same girl who got off the boat from Sweden," she says. "Maybe a little taller and a little more money, that's all. But I'm not changed inside."

"In fact, sometimes when people stop me on the street and try to touch me, I can't understand why, what they think I am. It's only me, Inger Stensland of Sweden."

That name, incidentally, was changed when she began her career in New York by "a stupid man." He felt it was too long; Stevens is shorter by a big two letters. Now she wishes she hadn't let him do it, but it's too late.

MAYBE YOU'VE NOTICED that, on The Farmer's Daughter, Katy's Swedish accent is gradually fading out. That's Inger's idea; she thinks an intelligent girl—such as Katy—would encourage her accent to disappear.

In real life, Inger Stevens' accent vanished quickly; there is none at all left now. She laughs at those actors who deliberately retain what she calls "professional accents."

The imprint of Inger's thoughts are strong on her show. She is a forceful personality and, moreover, she is part-owner of The Farmer's Daughter. At first, she was very active in the day-to-day operation of the show, but she found that too time-consuming.

"One thing the show taught me," she says, "is how to say no. I can't always feel like 'ja'—sometimes I feel like 'him-mel'."

Where To Retire

Many couples in their middle fifties have a long cherished dream of acquiring a little piece of land in "the country" and building or remodeling a retirement home on it.

Thomas Collins, a columnist who specializes in analyzing the problems of the aging, has what seems to us to be some pretty sound advice for such couples. Don't do it, he says. By the time most men reach age 60, they do not have the muscles to fight off nature, build a home, and keep the fences mended to keep out the neighbor's horses.

There is also, Collins points out, the peril and inconvenience of being in an isolated place. Fire departments in nearby rural towns usually can't come nearly as fast to a burning house as their city counterparts, says one older who tried the country living dream. "And you could lie dead or near death for a week before anybody knew," adds the same disillusioned spokesman. Old friends from the city, Collins reports, show remarkably little desire to come out to the country for a visit. Loneliness is a factor in this way of life.

Finally, country retirement places frequently can be difficult to sell if the whole project turns sour. And a widow left in such an isolated environment has an unusually hard time coping with things. Collins urges couples who can tolerate the city at all to remain there. Admitting that there are retired people who built country places and found happiness in them, he says that others may find they have followed "a rabbit into a wildcat's hole." Beaumont (Tex.) Refuses To Fire And Goes To Jail

In Wisconsin, the manager of an industrial plant has been ordered to prison. His crime: he refused to fire a worker who would not join the union.

Wisconsin does not have a "Right To Work" law. So the "union shop" contract is the usual arrangement in industry. Many firms, assuming they wish to remain in business feel it necessary to accept such contracts, as this one did. It was a violation of the contract for the manager not to fire the worker.

Now, with the court's ruling, the man is fired and his boss will go to jail.

If Wisconsin wants it that way, South Carolina has no objection. But does South Carolina want it that way? Those who think every worker ought to be in a union do. They even want the federal government to authorize "union shop" contracts even though South Carolina has a law to the contrary.

The Herald believes that the vast majority of people in this state object strenuously to the idea that the law should require a man to be fired because he does not choose to join a labor union. - Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald

Recognition of Viet Nam Reds Assured

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is more clearly committed than ever today to admitting Communists to some future government of South Viet Nam if they can show the necessary political power in post-war free elections.

This appears to have been the principal foreign policy result of a noisy four-day battle between Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and the Johnson administration over the Communists-in-government issue as it may affect peace prospects and an eventual political settlement of the Vietnamese war.

When the fight, which began Saturday, finally reached its climax late Tuesday, Kennedy backed away from interpretations of his position to the effect that he favored putting Communists into a coalition government in Saigon prior to the holding of elections.

No Progress in Peace Talks, Britisher Says

By JOHN WEYLAND

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson said today that he had held "very full, very frank, almost hard-hitting" talks on Viet Nam with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. But he indicated that no progress was made.

"We all recognize the extreme difficulties, and the differences of our positions," Wilson said. Wilson told an airport news conference just before flying home after a three-day visit that he could not claim any results from a British contact made here with North Viet Nam.

Wilson's disarmament minister, Lord Chalfont, had "a very lengthy and searching discussion" with the North Viet Nam charge d'affaires here, Lee Chang, Wilson told newsmen. Wilson said Chalfont conveyed British government views on the Viet Nam situation, they "will no doubt be passed on to Hanoi."

Kosygin has accepted an invitation from the British prime minister to visit Britain and the date is being worked out, it was learned.

It was understood that an agreement to continue personal contacts between the two governments at high levels was the major accord to come out of Wilson's three-day stay in Moscow.

A communique to be issued after Wilson's return to London was expected to contain no dramatic signs of agreement on world affairs.

Qualified sources said North Viet Nam's envoy Lee Chang promised to clarify some of Hanoi's conditions for peace talks at the surprise four-hour meeting with Chalfont Wednesday.

British sources said the next step hinges on North Viet Nam's reply.

Some British authorities think Hanoi may relax one of its conditions—that the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, serve as the sole representative of South Viet Nam at any peace parley. The point has been rejected by the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments.

Chalfont is in Moscow with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson who leaves today after three days of talks with Soviet leaders.

Wilson ordered Chalfont to meet with Lee after he reportedly made no headway in trying to persuade Soviet leaders to help sponsor peace talks.

last-minute changes in Wilson's plans today as the Soviet-British exchange entered its final day.

A scheduled meeting between Wilson and Kosygin was postponed until after tomorrow. This aroused speculation that Kosygin wanted time to consult with his colleagues on Wilson's nuclear proposals.

A scheduled news conference also was postponed.

British sources reported that at his meeting with Kosygin Wednesday, Wilson called for talks by the five nuclear nations on a world treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons. Qualified sources said Kosygin was considering the suggestion.

A Blue Chip Industry to Fordyce

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said Wednesday that a blue-chip industry, Phelps Dodge Corp., will build a multi-million dollar electrical wire and cable factory in Fordyce.

He said the firm will have a 125,000-square foot plant on a 35-acre tract, with initial employment of 125 persons.

The company has not asked for financial help and apparently no bond issue will be needed, the governor said.

Faubus said Phelps Dodge sells principally to independent telephone companies and that the Allied Telephone Co., which serves the Fordyce area, was instrumental in persuading Phelps Dodge to locate at Fordyce.

The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission also worked with the company, which has 11 U.S. plants and headquarters in Yonkers, N.Y. The firm's 1964 sales totaled $389 million.

The plant location was announced simultaneously in the governor's office and at Fordyce.

Sr. Citizens Day Friday at City Hall

As announced earlier, Friday Feb. 25 has been proclaimed as Senior Citizen's Day here in Hope. In connection with this event, representatives from the Social Security Office in Texarkana, Texas will conduct a meeting on Medicare, the new health benefits program recently enacted into law.

This meeting will be held at the Courtroom in the City Hall in Hope. The time of the meeting will be from 1:00 to 8:00 p.m.

The purpose of this meeting will be to sign up for Medicare eligible persons who have not yet signed up for this new health insurance and to answer any questions the general public may have about the program.

If a person is confined to his home and wished to file for Medicare, call the Social Security Representative and arrangements will be made to have someone come to the home. If anyone needs transportation, call PR 7-5542 and a member of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce will pick the person up and bring him back home.

Millwood Road Closed Until May

The road across the Millwood Dam is closed to the public and will remain closed until about May 1, 1966, when the guardrails, surfacing and traffic control facilities will be completed. In the meantime, traffic will be restricted due to the construction activities.

Boating on the reservoir during the high water stages prior to formal closing of the gates is extremely dangerous due to submerged logs and unmarked hazard areas. Until the lake is properly cordoned, hazard areas marked and patrols maintained, boating will remain extremely hazardous, says Otis K. Higgins, Reservoir Engineer.

Candidates Delay Talks

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The appearance of five candidates for the 4th Congressional District seat before the Arkansas Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi has been postponed.

The meeting, scheduled for tonight, will be rescheduled sometime in the spring, the professional journalism fraternity said.

Convict Tells of Hearing of Murder Plot

By ATHUR EVERETT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A wiry, thin-faced convict claims he was told of a deal to try and frame Candace Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, in the slaying of her multimillionaire husband.

He is Virgil Nelson Halford, 29, serving a life term in Texas for raping a 9-year-old girl. He returns to the stand today for cross-examination.

Wednesday, Halford described a conversation he said he had with a star witness for the state, Bill Frank Mulvey, another convict from Texas.

"He told me he didn't know anything about the case. He told me he was going to testify to whatever people wanted him to testify about. He told me he had made a deal."

"He said he didn't think he would ever have to come back to the Texas State Penitentiary if he came down and testified. He told me if the defense would make it worth his while, he would sell out to them."

Sixteen days ago, the state put Mulvey, 35, on the stand. He related a chilling tale of a murder-for-hire proposition he said was put to him by Mrs. Mossler while he was between prison stretches in 1962. He said she gave him a $7,000 down payment to kill her husband, but the deal never went through.

Mulvey also testified that he found himself two years later in the same Houston jail with Powers, after Powers had been arrested in the 1964 Mossler slaying.

"He told me he killed Jacques Mossler," Mulvey said. Mulvey still has five years to go on a theft conviction.

Powers, 29, and Mrs. Mossler, who says she is 40, are on trial for murder in Mossler's slaying.

Halford said early in 1965, while he and Mulvey were working in the penitentiary cane field, the subject of the Mossler slaying came up.

Heavy Assault Against GIs Kills 89 Reds

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Viet Cong battalion slashed across a minefield early today and attacked elements of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division in one of the heaviest Communist assaults against the GIs.

The Americans beat off the attackers with a barrage of mortar and artillery fire, killing at least 89 Reds and wounding 11, according to reports from the scene. U.S. casualties overall were described as light but some small units took moderate losses.

The 3½-hour battle took place near Tan Binh in the jungles 30 miles north of Saigon, where thousands of infantrymen on Operation Mastiff have been looking for several hard-core Viet Cong regiments since Monday.

A U.S. Marine company battled another Viet Cong battalion equipped with automatic weapons outside Ky My, a village near Da Nang, 380 miles north-east of Saigon. With armed helicopters backing them up, the Leathernecks killed 25 Communists and put the rest to flight, a Marine spokesman said.

Down the coast, a Marine patrol spotted 20 Viet Cong near Chu Lai and called in howitzers to fire on them. The Marines spotted only six fleeing the scene and presumed the rest were either killed or wounded.

Despite heavy rain, American jets hit North Viet Nam again Wednesday, using radar in some cases to get on target, spokesmen reported. Navy carrier planes flew six missions at altitudes of 500 to 2,000 feet, pounding a highway "Z" miles southwest of Vinh and a river ford 30 miles northwest of Donghoi, both in the North Vietnamese Panhandle.

Air Force fighter-bombers again ranged over Dien Bien Phu, the old French fortress near the Laotian frontier, striking barracks, other buildings and the approaches to a highway bridge.

Small Viet Cong forces attacked two government outposts in the early morning darkness outside Quang Ngai City in a burst of guerrilla activity 30 miles north of the big U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division-Marine offensive on the central coast.

William N. Edward, 26, of Selma was killed when his plane crashed into a small grove of trees. He was spraying fertilizer on a rice field.

Among the sophomores making the honor roll during the fall semester at the University of Arkansas College of Business Administration were Thomas McLarty of Hope, Johnny Johnson of Prescott and Steven Lester of Lewisville.

Pine Tree seedlings are still available according to Buster Denton, district forester, whose office is located at Delight. He bought in quantities as small as 500 seedlings at $1.50 per thousand. Contact your local Foresters and he will handle your order.

Hope's Ronnie Ingram has 216 points through last week's play in District 4AA and this is good for only third place. Dennis Ramsey is fifth with 203 points. McAllen of Fairview leads with 259 and Ashley of Arkadelphia is second with 244.

VIET NAM

President Johnson gets his chance to pour some oil on troubled congressional seas as he brings partisans of Viet Nam debate in to hear the vice president's report on his Asian trip.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey returns from his Asian-Pacific mission with growing optimism about prospects for winning ultimately in Viet Nam.

President Johnson seeks to reassure critics of administration Viet Nam policies.

The President's New York speech indicates he feels his congressional critics have debated their views to a stand-off without impairing his freedom to act as he deems necessary.

The Communists hit government forces north of the big Allied offensive in Viet Nam and try to disrupt pacification efforts.

A meeting of Lord Chalfont, British disarmament minister, and Lee Chang, North Vietnamese diplomat, could lead to discussion of a possible peace conference.

Volunteers Needed for Heart Sunday

Volunteers now are being recruited for the Heart Sunday canvas which is to be conducted in Hempstead County as the high point of the '66 Heart Fund Campaign here, it was announced today by Mrs. Elhorna Ridgell local campaign chairman.

The volunteers, she said, will call on their neighbors during the day February 27.

Fifty or 60 men and women who can find time to call on about 10 or 15 neighbors to advance the most vital health crusade of our time, said Mrs. Ridgell.

"The importance of our cause may be judged by the fact that the heart diseases are responsible for more than half of all deaths in this County, while on the average one of each nine citizens is afflicted."

"We are not asking very much -- certainly, not more than an hour of your time," she continued. "Considering the seriousness of the problem and the fact that heart disease poses a threat to every family, the investment is surely a wise one."

These were Johnson's main points.

The United States fights for a limited objective, will not engage in mindless escalation, will give its troops all the help they need, will try to avoid war with Communist China, seeks social and political reform in South Viet Nam, will abide by the results of any free election there, and will continue searching for peace.

How long will the war last? Said Johnson: "To that question—in all honesty—I can give no answer tonight. . . . If the aggressor persists in Viet Nam, the struggle may be long."

Self Defense Is Reason for War

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Richard S. Arnold of Texarkana, a Democratic candidate for 4th District Representative, said Tuesday that the U.S. commitment in Viet Nam is a matter of self-defense for America.

Arnold said he did not agree with those who opposed the present Viet Nam policies, but said "their right to debate, to investigate, to hold hearings, must be unquestioned."

He said America's national honor is at stake at Viet Nam. "If we do not stand there, the Chinese Communists will make us stand somewhere else."

Lamb Stew Has Nostalgic Appeal

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many readers have asked for a good recipe for old-fashioned lamb stew. They say they get "lonesome" for it. Here is a version with dumplings so no one need be lonesome any more.

OLD-FASHIONED LAMB STEW WITH DUMPLINGS

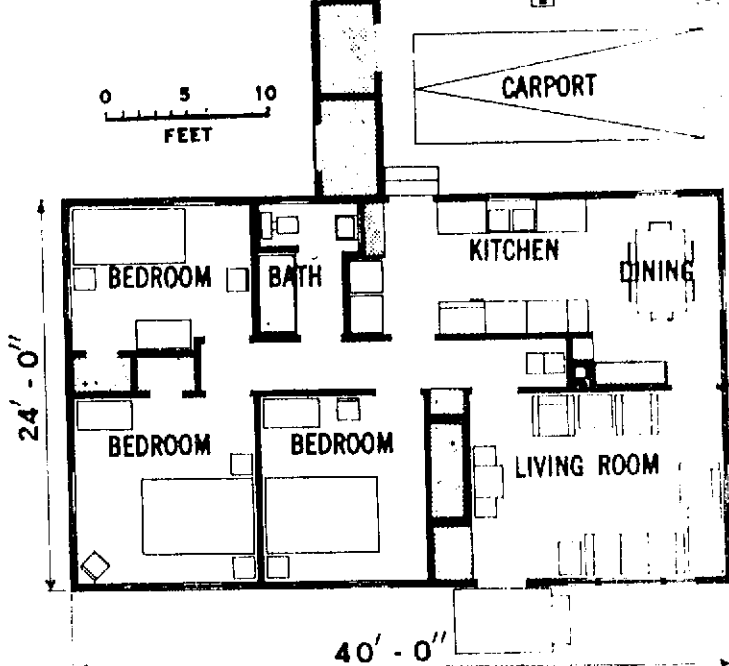

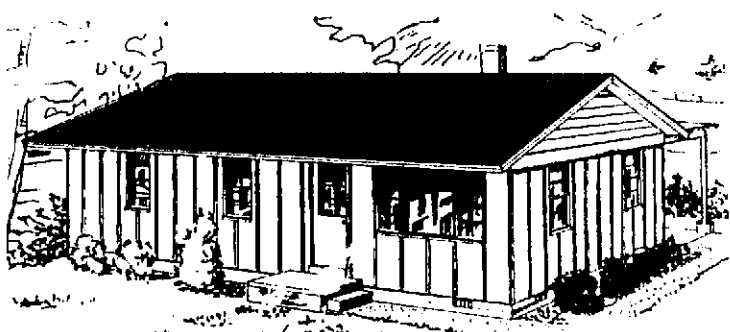

- (Serves 8)
- 4 pounds of neck of lamb and breast of lamb, cut into small pieces
 - 5 quarts of water
 - 2 pounds of potatoes
 - 1 egg
 - All-purpose flour
 - Salt and pepper
 - 1½ tablespoons aromatic bitters
 - 1 cup packaged croutons
 - Salted water
 - 7 small carrots, sliced into 2-inch lengths
 - ½ pound yellow onions (2 medium), each cut into 6 pieces

Cover lamb with cold water. Bring to a boil, lower heat and simmer for 1½ hours or until meat is tender, skimming top occasionally to keep broth clear. While meat is cooking, cook potatoes separately. Peel and mash. Beat in egg and enough flour to make mixture easy to shape into balls. Stir in 1 teaspoon salt, ½-teaspoon pepper, ½-tablespoon of the bitters and croutons. Shape mixture into 1½-

OLD-FASHIONED LAMB STEW still tastes great.

inch balls and drop into simmering salted water. If the first dumpling breaks apart add more flour to the remaining potato mixture. Cook uncovered for 10 minutes, then cover and cook another 10 minutes. To lamb stew add carrots, onions and remaining bitters. Cover and simmer another 30 minutes. Skim off fat. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve stew in soup plates with potato dumplings.

PLANNED FOR TOWN AND COUNTRY—Planned originally as a farm house, this one-floor dwelling designed by the Agricultural Department's Research Service also can be adapted to the needs of growing families in many urban and suburban areas. It contains many features usually found only in much more expensive homes. Working drawings for the house, designated Plan No. 7169, can be obtained from county agents, extension agricultural engineers at state agricultural colleges, or the U.S. Agricultural Engineering Research Division, Beltsville, Md.

Look for Best Bargain When Financing a Car

Monthly payments for a new or used car have become as certain for the majority of citizens as death and taxes.

It is estimated that six out of 10 cars purchased are bought on credit. Those affected the most are in the $4,000 or $5,000 annual income group. Eighty-five per cent of this group own at least one car and 17 per cent own two or more.

Encouraging this continuing outlay for cars is the easy auto loan. For this reason, it is essential that those shopping for cars give more thought to financing.

What seems to be a good bargain through a liberal trade-in allowance or reduced car price often is swept away by high interest charges and other costs.

It is important then to shop around for the best buy in auto loans.

There are two principal methods of car financing: (1) a loan from a bank, credit union or other lending agency, and (2) financing through the car dealer.

When dealing with a bank or credit union, for example, you get the full amount, pay for the car and make monthly payments to the bank or CU for the loan. Generally, an auto dealer finances through a third party.

There is little reason why you must accept an auto dealer's financing. Shop around to find out what the lowest interest charge will be. Generally the lowest interest charge is made by commercial banks. The rate nationally is $4 to $6 per $100. Credit unions offer a rate of $4.50 to $6.50; auto finance companies $6 to $9, and loans obtained from or through dealers are $6 to $9 per $100.

To shop for the lowest financing cost you also need some key figures concerning the car you want to purchase. You need to know (1) the exact amount to be financed, and (2) the total amount of the finance charges.

This sounds simple but often these amounts are shadowed by a glib salesman's spiel and the buyer's failure to itemize and add all costs.

Be sure you know what each monthly payment will be, including the last payment. Some sellers quote low monthly down-payments, but "balloon" the last payment. Once the installment contract is signed, the buyer must meet payments even if he must take out a new loan to meet the extremely large final payment.

In itemizing what a car actually will cost to finance also figure in insurance payments and extra charges or fees such as those for investigation, recording or notarizing.

CHICKEN-BROCCOLI BAKE

(Serves 4)

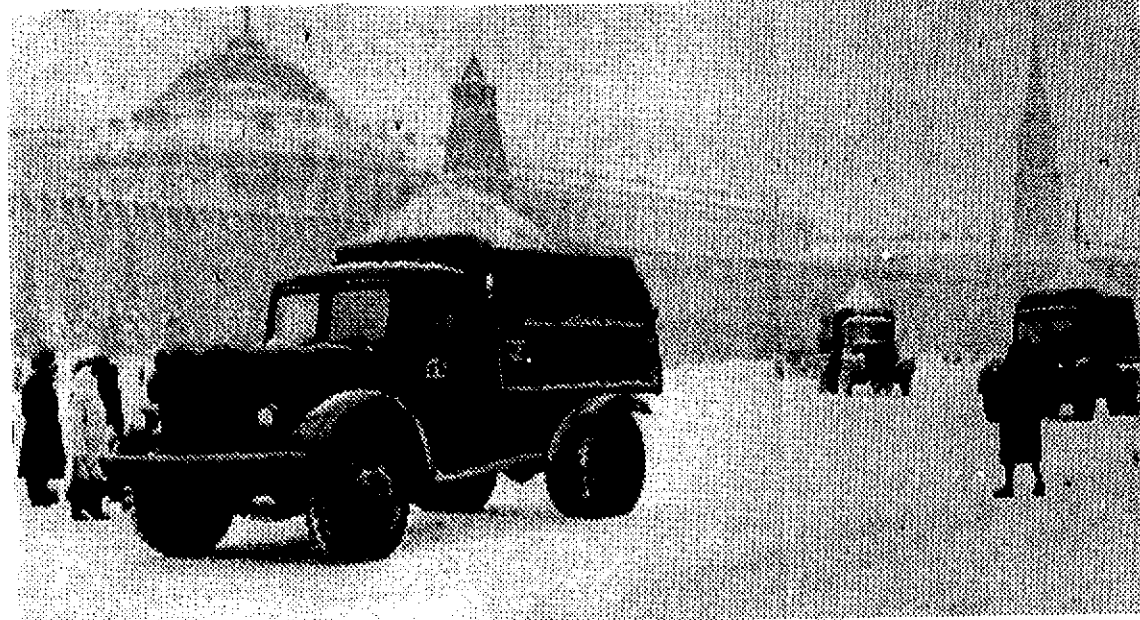

- 2 whole chicken breasts, cut in half
- ¼ cup and 1½ tablespoons instantized all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons seasoned salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1 (10-oz.) package broccoli spears frozen in butter sauce in cooking pouch
- 1 (4½-oz.) can sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1½ cups light cream
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Remove skin from chicken breasts; dust with a mixture of ¼-cup flour, seasoned salt and pepper. Brown in butter or margarine until golden brown. Set aside.

Slip flavor-tight cooking pouch of broccoli spears frozen in butter sauce into boiling water. Bring to second boil; continue cooking for just 10 minutes. Do not cover pan.

Partially open flavor-tight cooking pouch; drain butter sauce into medium saucepan. Add mushrooms; saute until lightly browned. Combine 1½ tablespoons flour with cream; gradually add to mushrooms, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture thickens. Add salt and cheese; heat until well-blended.

Place broccoli in 1½-quart shallow baking dish; arrange chicken over broccoli spears. Top with sauce. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until chicken is tender.

In the Wake of the 'Tinkerbelle': The Metamorphosis of Robert Manry

By DON GRAFF
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—It took considerably less time for a graying newspaperman to become a world hero than it's taking him to learn to live with the results.

Robert Manry sailed into fame last summer in a 13½-foot boat—78 days and 3,200 miles across the Atlantic in his tiny Tinkerbelle, from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England.

Alone.

About to step into the public eye again, this time with a much less clear idea as to journey's end, Manry is still discovering that the voyage was in many ways the easiest part of his metamorphosis.

The half-year since the brouhaha of homecoming, when Cleveland turned out to give the home boy the keys to the city, has been quiet, time for stock-taking and second thoughts. But that's about to end.

The book he has been working on while on indefinite, unpaid, leave from his job on the Cleveland Plain Dealer copy desk will be published in May. The title stops just short of telling the whole story—"Tinkerbelle: The Story of the Smallest Boat Ever to Cross the Atlantic Non-Stop."

Next on the schedule is a year-long, country-wide lecture tour. But after that, the Manry future is fuzzy.

If there is to be big money in fame, Manry probably has passed up more than he has realized.

"If we were out to make a lot, we could have done a lot better than we have," he says with no evidence of great regret. "I turned down advertising endorsements. Not that I have anything against them. It's just that I don't believe in endorsing anything I don't use."

"There was an offer from a whisky distiller for an appearance at a good fee. But I'd been built up as a Charles Lindbergh-type—

'We could have done a lot better.'

'I don't expect the book to be another Bible.'

'We're pretty much the same people.'

the all-American boy, some sort of shining example—and I didn't think it would be right.

"There was even an approach by a movie outfit which thought Jonathan Winters was just the person to play my part."

What has been realized so far comes from a Life magazine picture spread last year and his publisher, a $5,000 advance and another $5,000 guaranteed upon delivery of the manuscript. After that, there will be royalties on sales, but "I'm not expecting it to be another Bible or cookbook."

Lecture fees, serializations in this country and reprints in Europe could boost the take considerably. But for the present, it's more possibility than probability and the Manrys are playing it cautiously.

"This may be our only chance to make something," Manry's wife, Virginia, explains, "so we're feeling our way. We don't want to go out and do something like buying a big house right away. Our main interest, really, is having enough money to get the kids through college."

College isn't the only cause for concern about the kids, Robin, 14, and Douglas, 11. There's the more immediate problem of coolness, even hostility, both have run into among onetime chums.

Doug is handling it best. Pride seems to be his armor and, once on the quiet side, he's now "blossoming out," his father notes with pleasure.

But it's tougher for Robin.

"I don't understand it," Virginia says. "Kids who were her friends would say: 'Hey, Manry! Your old man's nuts!' She says she can get down a school corridor now without trouble, but she's still withdrawn."

It's not only at school that changed attitudes have been noticed.

"I think we're pretty much the same people we were before," Manry says. "But what is changing is the attitude of other people toward us. I know a lot of people who before gladly would have done things for me; now they charge me a fee."

Not everyone, however. Mrs. Manry is quick to add. "Some people we don't even know have been so sweet. They must have thought we needed money, because at first they kept sending us checks and bills. Many didn't give names or addresses, so we couldn't send them back. We gave them to charity."

Bob also continues to receive fan mail, prompted, he thinks, by the appeal of a voyage which was an individual effort in an age when "people are becoming ciphers, lost in these gigantic organizations we've built."

The Manrys' neat, ranch-style home in suburban Willowick is well-stocked with mementos of the Tinkerbelle epic, mostly gifts from admiring citizens.

An oil painting ("One of five we've been given") of the tiny craft in a mountainous blue-green sea takes over one living room wall. In a corner squats a larger-than-life critical standards—threatens to fall into the problem category. Out with her only twice since the Atlantic crossing, once with an embarrassing mishap ending with a tow into harbor, Bob doubts he'll ever sail her again.

But what to do with her remains the question.

There are bids (not from Smithsonian, suggestions and reports to the contrary) from bust of the sailor ("Please don't think I'm in love with myself; we just don't know where else to put it").

But even gift bearers have come to be suspect. A supply of food good for months was somewhat less welcome with realization of the promotional value to the giver, a grocery chain.

Even faithful Tinkerbelle—now making the rounds of boat shows meeting Bob's several museums, some of which, Bob suspects, are more interested in local promotion than in posterity.

"I will eventually have to make a decision, and I'm not looking forward to it because whomever I give it to, the others will be mad."

In the Manry garage, the gift of a London newspaper is waiting—a 10-foot dinghy named Tinkerbelle II, right now with a hole in the bottom, where it was damaged in transit.

Manry would like a larger boat to take care of the whole family. And he's doing some dreaming about what might come then.

"I'd like, maybe, to take a different cruise each summer with the family—the Caribbean, the Aegean islands—and perhaps write about it."

The hero of Cleveland got a whole of a homecoming.

BOLD NEW LABEL

The Manry children, Doug and Robin, had a lot of adjusting to do.

Rock Lobsters in Potato Nests

ROCK LOBSTER IN POTATO NESTS is a meatless treat.

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here's a meatless main dish stacked with eye, appetite and nutrition appeal. The entire family will approve.

Bake and serve it in individual casseroles. This helps make the meal more interesting.

ROCK LOBSTER IN POTATO NESTS
(Serves 8)
1 pkg. (5 oz.) instant mashed potatoes
Salt and pepper

6 (3-5 oz.) South African rock lobster tails
1 can (10½ oz.) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
½ cup chopped pimiento
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen mixed vegetables, thawed and drained or 1 cup leftover vegetables, drained

Prepare mashed potatoes according to package directions, seasoning with salt and pepper. Parboil rock lobster tails by dropping into boiling salted water. When water boils drain immediately and drench with cold water. With scissors, cut away underside membrane, remove meat from shells and cut into ½-inch slices. Meat will not be thoroughly cooked; it will finish cooking in the sauce. Mix rock lobster with remaining ingredients. Line the bottom and sides of 8 well-greased individual casseroles with mashed potatoes. Fill the center of each "nest" with lobster mixture. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 25 minutes or until top is lightly browned.

This Cake Has a Summer Flavor

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

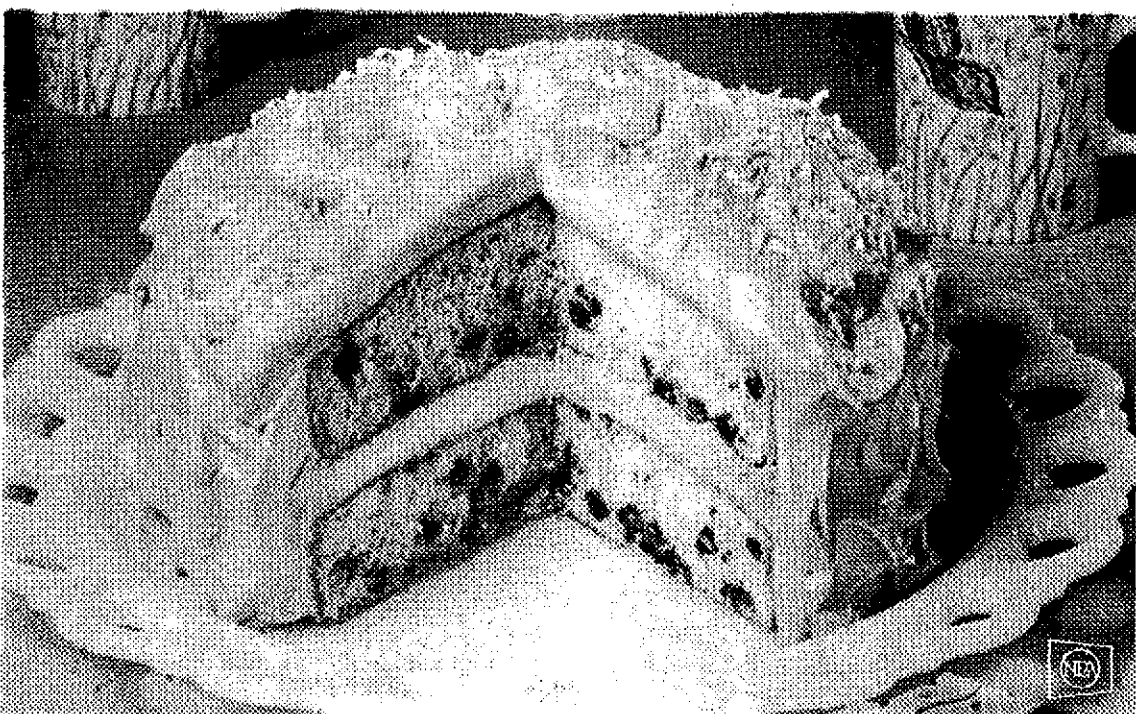

Blueberries spell summer flavor—yes, even when canned. So during the blustery days of March, why not put some blueberries into your life? You'll like this recipe combining canned blueberries, chopped nuts and flaked coconut.

BLUEBERRY-COCONUT LAYER CAKE

- 1 package white cake mix
- 1 can (1-lb.) blueberries
- 1/4 cup flaked coconut
- 1/4 cup chopped filberts or hazelnuts
- 1 package fluffy white frosting mix
- Additional coconut

Prepare white cake mix according to package directions using 1/4-cup less water in batter. Drain blueberries, reserving syrup. Fold blueberries, coconut and nuts into batter. Pour batter into 2 greased and floured 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes or until cake shrinks from side of pan.

Perfume Oils
Perfume oils come from such aromatic substances as bark, blossoms, leaves, roots, seeds and wood. Grasse, which is the perfume capital of France, specializes in oil from flowers, such as lavender, jasmine, jonquil, mimosa, narcissus, rose, tuberose and violet. Few de luxe perfumes are made without the use of oil from jasmine.

BLUEBERRY-COCONUT LAYER CAKE casts a summer spell.

Unmold and cool layers on a rack. Add enough water, if necessary, to reserved blueberry syrup to make 1/2-cup.

Heat to boiling. Beat hot syrup and frosting in a small, deep bowl until mixture is thick and fluffy. Use frosting between layers and over sides and top of cake. Sprinkle top of cake with additional coconut.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Daughters of Orange, NBC's news special Sunday night, was an enterprising example of converting film library material, mostly routine, into a gossipy, romantic television feature.

Aline Saarinen, NBC's house expert on art, architecture and royalty, narrated the recent history of Holland's royal house from assorted wintry positions in front of Dutch palaces, NATO headquarters and public parks which gave a degree of immediacy to her account.

There was the retelling of the family and government crisis created by the queen's association with a woman mystic brought into the family circle in an effort to improve the sight of Juliana's youngest child.

Then we were updated on two royal romances in the best "Prisoner of Zenda" tradition.

All this was illustrated by the most pedestrian newsreel film for the most part. Some of the more interesting was 40 and 50 years old.

Biggest disappointment of the whole weekend, however, was CBS' "An Evening With Carol Channing." If the show had been up to Miss Channing's wardrobe, however, it would have been great. It was high-style and enormous.

David McCallum seemed out of place but worked with the star through a dull, polylingual sketch. Miss Channing started one number as the face of Mona Lisa and wound up doing the frug in a leotard. George Burns made jokes about his singing and cigar-smoking. But Miss Channing's clothes were really great.

Calvin, LBJ Had Little in Common

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calvin Coolidge and Lyndon B. Johnson would seem to have little in common, except that both reached the white House by the vice-presidential route.

There may be another common bond, however, between the pale, laconic Yankee and the ruddy, talkative Texan. Perhaps both can be regarded as "Puritans in Babylon."

When William Allen White, the famed Kansas editor of a few decades back, wrote a Coolidge biography he titled it "A Puritan in Babylon." Indeed, a Coolidge in the White House contrasted sharply with the uninhibited goings-on of the roaring 20s.

Now everyone thinks of the earthy Johnson as puritanical—i.e., they may be misreading the man.

One associate who has been close to Johnson for many years insists the chief executive can be fully understood only when some of his more striking personality traits are related to the moralistic "Bible belt" background of his youth.

Take Johnson's vacation habits as an example. Almost all presidents have welcomed vacations, taking time off from work at hunting and fishing lodges and seaside resorts where they have made a pretension of conducting official business. Johnson is different.

One certain way for a newsman to rouse Johnson's displeasure is to describe a presidential weekend in Texas as a holiday. Johnson even rebels at the often-used "work-and-play" designation for these periodic sojourns.

With Johnson, it seems, it must always be a matter of work, work, and more work. "The President believes it's sinful to have fun," said the associate who views him as a Puritan. This man speaks with deep conviction and, as noted, from long and first-hand observation of the President.

According to his argument, Johnson is incapable of enjoying pure relaxation — of accepting "idleness." This source says the President's genuine pang of conscience if he decides he has been enjoying himself in an indolent way.

Thus, it is said, Johnson shuns the lodges and resorts that attracted other presidents. If he travels to places like Waikiki Beach or Palm Springs, Calif., it must be for a business purpose.

On one fairly recent occasion, on a vacationing president — Johnson went vacationing in Acapulco, Mexico. After 24 hours of idleness in the sun, according to one who was there, "he could stand it no longer and had to start 'doing something'."

Some people around the White House vow that, sooner or later, they will persuade the President to take a real vacation — perhaps in a locale like the Virgin Islands. Many who know Johnson doubt this ever will happen. But even Calvin Coolidge took long fishing vacations in the Black Hills of South Dakota. And his Puritan conscience didn't seem to trouble him a bit. James Marlow, who usually writes this column, is ill.

Painting's Models

When Willard painted his famous "Spirit of '76," his father was the model for the central figure, Hugh Mosher, a soldier friend, posed for the two players, and the son of John H. Devereaux became the drummer boy.
